THE SECRET OF SIMPLE LIVING

REFLEX

The first company to use glass as a base for tables, Reflex has evolved from its origins as a family glassworks in the 1940s to become an innovator in the field of Murano glass furniture. Star products include the all-glass 'Prisma 72' table. It also produces upholstered seating – see 'Segno' (left) – and, under its sister label Angelo, a collection of beds. ## RIMADESIO

Maker of every kind of storage you could possibly need – freestanding cupboards, walk-in wardrobes and much more – as well as a smart range of complementary furniture, Rimadesio champions the use of glass for its ability to zone space while also enhancing light. This year marks the 20th anniversary of its classic 'Zenit' aluminium shelving, and we're excited about the new 'Alambra' storage system (above) by Giuseppe Bavuso – its transparent glass panels make it a great room divider, as well as a stylish display case. ## RIVA 1920

Since its beginnings in 1920s Lombardy, this brand has always had hand-crafted wooden furniture at its heart. It has an ethical focus, using natural glues, waxes and oils and sustainable timbers. This year, the brand is introducing two new black wood finishes, 'Total Black' and 'Mystic Black', as well as the stylish 'Cambusa Glass' bar cabinet (right) by Giuliano and Gabriele Cappelletti. ## ROSSANA

Established in 1953, Rossana was the first kitchen brand to have its designs exhibited in the Museum of Modern Art, New York. Up close, its workmanship is breathtaking, often featuring slabs of exotic marble – the 'DC10' kitchen (left) by Vincenzo De Cotiis is a prime example. rossana.uk.com

SALVATORI

For the finest marble furniture, bathroom fittings and accessories, look no further than Salvatori, which has been operating out of Tuscany (home to Carrara marble) since 1946. Among its star products are the monumental 'Love Me, Love Me Not' tables by Michael Anastassiades, while recent launches include 'Adda' (pictured), a bathroom collection by Spanish designer David Lopez Quincoces that combines ribbed walnut with statement marble. ## SCAVOLINI

Scavolini has been making kitchens for over half a century, and in recent years has launched bathroom and living room furniture, too. Its kitchens are innovative – Nendo's 'Qi' (above) conceals appliances behind elm-effect doors. Coming soon is 'Diesel Open Workshop', a kitchen range created with the fashion label.
